CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

This year, 2012, seems to be full of notable events – the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, the Olympic Games, the 200th anniversary of the birth of both Augustus Wellby Northmore Pugin and Charles Dickens, and the centenary of the death of Octavia Hill, one of the founders of the National Trust. These last two are both being marked by our speakers in October and November. Nearer to home, one of our own favourite National Trust properties, Baddesley Clinton, celebrates its 30th year of opening for the National Trust (see their news on page 12).

It is also, of course, our own Association's 40th anniversary. Our inaugural meeting was held in October 1972, and so we have planned a supper event in the Orangery at Charlecote Park for 4th October. The evening will start fairly early, at 6 for 6.30, as we know that the days will be getting shorter, and members may like to roam around the gardens. Details are on page 11 of this magazine, and we hope to welcome you there to celebrate 40 years of our support for the National Trust.

We are pleased to have welcomed another new member, Margaret Tomlinson, to our Committee, and as she has already helped with organising outings, we know that she will be a great asset to us. Our committee has worked hard this year, and have all volunteered to assist in organising outings, suggesting suitable speakers for our evening meetings and generally being helpful in running the Association.

Membership is holding up well, thanks to the efforts of our Membership Secretary, Valerie Grimmer, and David Gilmore, who makes contact with new National Trust members and ensures that they know about their local Association.

The evening meetings are being enjoyed at the refurbished Royal Spa Centre, where the seating is greatly improved, and although there were one or two hiccups at the start, we are assured that the entrance doors, which at the moment admit a lot of cold air as well as our valued members, are being replaced with a system which will make it more comfortable for all, particularly for those who check the tickets.

We look forward to your continuing support.

Patricia M. Dent

A Plea from Packwood...

At rather short notice, we received the following information from Packwood where they are working to transform the visitor experience by building a new cafe serving fresh, seasonal food using the fruit and vegetables from the Kitchen Garden; Opening up the Park with new walks and easier access across the road; Converting the existing barns to develop a Garden Shop and Plant Sales Area; Improving the car Park and Picnic Area and increasing opening at Packwood all year round.

Application goes to the Planning Committee at the end of February, but this may of course be held over to a later date. Supportive comments would be welcome on the WDC website or your signature on the petition in Visitor reception at Packwood.

EVENING MEETINGS 2012

*Our meetings are held on Wednesday evenings, normally the first Wednesday of the month in the Avon Hall of the Royal Spa Centre, and start at 7.30pm Guests are welcome, the admission price for non-members of the Association is £2.50

WEDNESDAY 7th MARCH

Peter Preece gives another of his natural history talks. EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY looks at the lifestyles of herons and kingfishers, rare mitten crabs and other wildlife in Britain and Europe.

WEDNESDAY 4th APRIL

Elizabeth Horton tells us about THE AGE OF ADORNMENT, which covers the history of jewellery in all its many forms, materials, styles and uses, from precious gems to the humble beechnut, via all the products of the Birmingham Jewellery Quarter: pique, silver, pinchbeck and much more. The Horton Collection of 19th century jewellery, the most comprehensive in private hands, was relocated to the Rochester Museum, Kent, in 1996, and the most popular items are now shown in this illustrated talk.

WEDNESDAY 2nd MAY

To celebrate our Queen's Diamond Jubilee next month, we are pleased to welcome Dr Barry Twigg. The overwhelming majority of people in the United Kingdom not only believe that the current Monarch has carried out her duties in a most outstanding way over an extraordinary sixty-year reign, but also believe that the monarchy remains relevant to the nation and to the other countries of which the Queen is Head of State, and to the Commonwealth now and in the future.

The Monarchy as an institution has been changing and modernising throughout the Queen's reign. SIXTY YEARS OF MARVELLOUS MODERN MONARCHY – not only refers to the magnificent model of a constitutional monarch which we have, but also to the ways in which the Monarchy has been developing over the years. It also looks towards the future. It also makes reference to the very small but vociferous republican movement in this country and counters the arguments which they put forward.

We have no evening meetings in June, July, August or September, but we are looking forward to the start of our next season in October when we shall have -

WEDNESDAY 3rd OCTOBER

Jane Tapley makes a return visit to us to ask "WHAT THE DICKENS?" to celebrate the 200th anniversary of his birth.

WEDNESDAY 7th NOVEMBER

Our AGM will be followed by a talk by Gillian Darley, "OCTAVIA HILL and the NATIONAL TRUST."

WEDNESDAY 28th NOVEMBER

Dorothy Nicolle tells us "ALL ABOUT CHRISTMAS"

WEDNESDAY 19th SEPTEMBER

ST PANCRAS STATION and DICKENS WALK

In the morning we will take a tour of the recently-restored St Pancras Station and its immediate surrounds. The noted transport writer, Christian Wolmar, described St Pancras as “the most significant urban structure built by the railways. Both its engine shed (ie the station itself) and the adjoining Gilbert Scott hotel would be notable individually but together they create a world class terminus. The sheer scale is breathtaking ...and the gothic design, with its exaggerated features, spires and statues, make it one of London’s greatest landmarks”

We’ll take a walk through the newly opened undercroft area, which was formerly the dark and musty home of thousands of beer barrels from the Burton Brewing Company, but now houses the Eurostar check-in area and many select shops and cafes. We’ll progress back along the upper floor, between the hotel and the Eurostar trains themselves (and the longest champagne bar in Europe!) passing the new statues that have drawn so much comment and view the new extension to the train shed, doubling its length. This is also the home of the new Javelin Train, which will whisk visitors to the Olympic site at Stratford in less than 7 minutes. Along the way our guide will cover the history, architecture, facilities and features of the awe-inspiring station area and of the former Midland Grand Hotel.

We will break for lunch after the tour. You might wish to dine in the former Booking Office – now a bar/diner within the restored hotel, but with the original features intact. There are myriad other dining options within the station area or in the nearby British Library.

In the afternoon we will take a Dickens-themed walk in the Strand/Fleet Street area. 2012 is the bicentenary of Charles Dickens’ birth. His literary works have the largest circulation of any English writer and are now published in many languages throughout the world. London was usually his canvas, and in this part of London there is plenty that would be recognizable to him today – albeit less smelly and with fewer horses! We’ll walk some of the streets, lanes, alleys and buildings that would have been known to Dickens and hear about their connections with his life and his works.

Our guide will again be Andrew Dick who took us to the Olympic sites. There will be a considerable amount of walking.

Organisers: John and Carolyn Labrum, 23 Bridge End, Warwick, CV34 6PB

Depart: 8.30am Newbold Comyn

Return: Approx 6.30pm

Cost £30

NATIONAL TRUST Bits and Pieces.....

CROOME COURT UPDATE

Members who took part in our trips to Croome several years ago will be interested to know how the projects are progressing. A recent project was to restore and repair two more of the flues and chimneys, and they are now able to use the Butlers Pantry and Dining Room fireplaces in time for the winter, recent visitors have been able to enjoy the warmth and glow of three real fireplaces.

Investigatory work on the wooden beams above the Long Gallery revealed a myriad of rotten, disintegrating and some intact beams lying quietly just under the surface of the floor. This space of the building has been closed until funds are raised to carry out repair works. Breaking news is the possible purchase and leasehold of one of the most significant missing pieces of the jigsaw – The Red Wing. The two buildings are seen as one, redesigned and built together in the 18th century by Capability Brown and are still joined together to this day.

Visitors to Croome are arriving in droves, with 100,000 visitors in 2011.

THE PLANNING CAMPAIGN

The Government's changes to the Planning system have attracted a great deal of media interest, and the National Trust is at the forefront of the objectors, being convinced that they will be nothing short of disastrous for the countryside and everyday green spaces.

For information on the campaign and the impact it will have on our countryside see the NT website: http://www.nationaltrust.org.uk/main/w-ch/w-countryside\_environment/w-planning-landing.htm

FORTY GLORIOUS YEARS

Many years ago I was very interested in the National Trust, and very much liked the idea of becoming a life member, but in those days I could not afford the few guineas which would have been necessary. The opportunity to join the Trust presented itself when a neighbour told me that a local “centre” was to be set up and that a public meeting would be held at Leamington College. I attended the meeting early in 1972, was asked to join the steering committee and was made Honorary Secretary, under the Chairmanship of Mr John Short, who had been a member of Coventry Centre.

Lady Fairfax-Lucy of Charlecote (mother of Sir Edmund Fairfax-Lucy, our President today) agreed to be our President, and our Inaugural Meeting was held in the Royal Spa Centre on Monday 2nd October 1972. The first talk was given on 6th November by Mr Lyndon Cave entitled “Leamington and its Regency Buildings”. In due course it was found more economical to meet at Leamington College, in venerable surroundings where the floorboards creaked every time someone moved, and the refreshments were served in the dining room under the hall. Within six months over 500 members had been enrolled and it was found necessary to move to the smaller hall in the Royal Spa Centre, and then to the Avon Hall.

In the beginning, just about all the administrative work, apart from finance and membership, was undertaken by the Secretary, but later various duties were shared by appointing other officers. Committee Meetings have always been held at homes of the Committee members, and it is a great tribute to them that the Association has thrived for the past forty years. Various titles were considered for the organisation – one of which was Heart of England Centre, but eventually it was decided to call it the less-romantic Mid-Warwickshire Centre. Some few years ago it was decided to re-title it as “Mid-Warwickshire Association”

From the beginning the main objective was to raise funds to support the National Trust, and appropriately, the first was to raise £200 for the replacement of floral urns along the river terrace at Charlecote. The urns are still there. Since then we have raised thousands of pounds for our local properties, and some further afield, even as far as the preservation of the coastline.

In the first year, excursions were organised to various interesting locations – Lacock, Berrington Hall, Waddesdon, Stourhead and Claydon – in a somewhat rickety coach which would be regarded as Spartan today. Perhaps the golden age of the excursion was under the guidance of Graham White in comfortable coaches with the best of organisation. Today the organisation of outings is shared between a number of willing volunteers.

When John Short ceased to be Chairman, Mr Kevin Meredith took over, and then I took the post, handing the secretaryship to Julia Johnstone. Our first newsletter was published in Spring 1973, and produced in foolscap using stencils. In those days the thought of our “Oak Leaves” being produced to its present high standard would have been unimaginable unless done by a professional publisher. Our current Editor is Patricia Dent, who is now Chairman and also Programme Secretary.

In many ways the Association would still be recognisable to its founders, and it is salutary to remember all who have contributed to its success, some of who are no longer with us. Let us celebrate the last forty years and hope for similar success in the years to come with capable and interested people willing to take us forward to many more successes.

NEWS from our local NATIONAL TRUST PROPERTIES

Details are correct as we go to print, but it is advisable to check before making a special journey.

BADDESLEY CLINTON – 01564-783294 - www.nationaltrust.org.uk/baddesleyclinton

Staff and volunteers are getting ready for a year of celebrations, as the 3rd April marks 30 years of being open to visitors with the National Trust.

It was Thomas Weaving Ferrers Walker's determination that had secured Baddesley's future. Caring for the house after his father's death in 1970, he had opened it to visitors himself while raising the necessary endowment to be able to hand the house and gardens to the National Trust. Two generous local donors offered £300,000 and many of the National Trust Centres and Associations as well as local charities and individuals gave donations.

Through the National Land Fund, the house contents and over 120 acres of land were given into our care, allowing Baddesley to be opened to visitors in April 1982 and the property still has a very loyal local following today.

The first Administrators, Roy and Pam McLeod had started in 1980 and spent two years overseeing renovations to the house, as it was re-roofed and setting up the tearoom and shop. Roy recorded in his diary for that first day "The crowds were let in at 2pm, but by that time a considerable queue had built up in Rising Lane (may have to open before time a little)..... And we put 306 people through – this seems to be the maximum for the time. The volunteers did a marvellous job and Mr Ferrers Walker was thrilled."

To celebrate, Baddesley will be doing 30 special things in 2012, including an exhibition of photographs and memories of the first open day, recreating Mr Ferrers Walker's study and even a commemorative jute bag in the shop!

While the beauty and tranquil atmosphere of Baddesley remain the same, some things have changed and the house, gardens and estate are now open all year round. From welcoming 306 visitors on the first day in 1982, the property expects 170,000 visitors this year, although it's still possible to find a quiet corner to enjoy this peaceful constant in a busy world.

COUGHTON COURT – 01789-400777: www.nationaltrust.org.uk/coughtoncourt

Coughton Court may have been closed over the winter, but behind the scenes we’ve been busier than ever preparing the house for the new 2012 season. Our volunteers have been working tirelessly, carrying out research into some of Coughton’s lesser-known stories and characters.

Their discoveries mean that, this year at Coughton, you can experience the Throckmorton’s journey from danger to triumph through the eyes of the remarkable women of the family, the wives, mothers and daughters whose stories are too often overshadowed by those of their husbands and fathers.

One of these fascinating stories is that of Catherine Collingwood. Catherine was the second wife of Sir Robert, the fourth Throckmorton Baronet, who had an horrific start in life when her father was hanged, drawn and quartered for treason before her second birthday.

In 2012 we introduce Coughton Arts, a varied programme of events including theatre, poetry, concerts and art. In our first year honorary director Helena Cavan, Cotswold composer and poet, celebrates local talent.

PACKWOOD HOUSE – 01564-782024: www.nationaltrust.org.uk/packwood

The team at Packwood were delighted to find out that a private donor was giving £30,000 for the conservation of one of the tapestries, and the one considered to be in most urgent need of work was the ‘Verdure’, usually displayed in the Long Gallery. (Also called Garden tapestry, Verdure tapestries are decorated with a design based on plant forms)

The Verdure dates from the late 17th century, and was given to the National Trust in 1941 by Graham Baron Ash along with the house. At some time in its life the tapestry has been cut down the centre, and the two pieces sewn back together to make it smaller.

While the Verdure is away, visitors will be able to enjoy a ‘Year of Tapestries’ and can find out more about the tapestries in the Packwood collection, the stories they show, their construction and how the National Trust cares for them. There will also be workshops and demonstrations throughout the year including spinning, weaving, knitting and rag rug making. For details of events and opening times, please visit the website or telephone the number above.

VISITS WE MADE IN 2011

SHIPTON HALL

Shipton Hall is a delightful house, still occupied by only the third family to have lived there since it was built around 1587, it was built to replace a much older black and white timbered house which was destroyed by fire earlier in the 16th century. The plasterwork on the ceilings is particularly interesting and the house displays the transition from black and white to stone and brick Georgian additions.

There are some medieval timbers and windows still to be seen.

STOKESAY CASTLE

Most of what we see today was built in the 1280s and 90s, and the gatehouse, which forms such a feature was built in 1640/41. The Great Hall of the Castle had large windows on both sides and were not glazed but were open to the elements as they were on the chilly, windy day in August when we went – impressive and very atmospheric – it gave us an insight into how hardy were the people living there in those far-off days!

We took another trip to the delightful ASHMOLEAN MUSEUM in Oxford, no guides, just the opportunity for people to browse and enjoy at their leisure. This was popular, there is a huge variety of beautifully set-out displays to cater for all interests.
